WORKFORCE SOLUTIONS FOR NORTH CENTRAL TEXAS PRESENTS BURLESON CHILD DEVELOPMENT CENTER #2 WITH THE CHILD CARE PROVIDER OF THE YEAR AWARD

ARLINGTON, Texas – Workforce Solutions for North Central Texas (WSNCT) has presented Burleson Child Development Center #2 with the Child Care Provider of the Year award. The child care facility, located in Burleson, Texas, was recognized at WSNCT’s Annual Awards of Excellence event held on January 30, 2019 at the Ruthe Jackson Center in Grand Prairie, Texas.

The Award of Excellence recognizes the dedication and impact of those who work in, with and on behalf of the organization, including board members, workforce center staff, business partners, educational institutions and community organizations throughout the 14-county area served by WSNCT.

“The care given to children today affects future generations of leaders, workers, organizers and others who contribute to our society,” expressed David Setzer, Executive Director of WSNCT. “It’s an honor to recognize an organization that is committed to providing quality care and education for our most vulnerable and impressionable population.”

Burleson Child Development Center #2 is a Four-Star Texas Rising Star (TRS) provider, the highest certification level a child care provider can receive from the TRS program. Each of the center’s staff has earned a Child Development Associate Credential™, which is the most widely recognized credential in early childhood education. Families who are struggling financially are helped through reduced tuition rates and scholarships. Kelly Mason, Director and Owner of Burleson Child Development Center #2 (and Center #1), consistently invests in the children, their families and the center staff to create the best possible learning and nurturing environment.
